April 18, 1910 — November 21, 1994

Our Founder - Chairman Prof. MALCOLM S. ADISESHIAH passed away during the early hours of November 21, 1994. This report was presented to the Twentieth meeting of the Governing Council on September 21, 1994 over which he presided.

In his demise, our Institute has suffered irreparable loss. We shall strive to be faithful to the tradition he has built up and to fulfil his vision.

Introduction

The Madras Institute of Development Studies was founded in January 1971 as a trust by Dr. Malcolm S Adiseshiah and Mrs. Elizabeth Adiseshiah with the following objectives :

- ☆ To undertake studies and research pertaining to development problems with special reference to the agro-rural aspects of Tamil Nadu and the problems of the economically and socially backward sections of the population throughout the country.
- ☆ To conduct seminars and conferences on development problems and programmes of the State.
- ☆ To foster inter-university cooperation among the social scientists of the Universities of the four southern states.
- ☆ To promote interdisciplinary research, and bring out publications relating to the above three functions.

In the course of its functioning, the first objective has been extended to cover all aspects of the socio-economic problems of Tamil Nadu, in addition to those of the rest of the country. During 1976 the Government of India through the Indian Council of Social Science Research, New Delhi, sent a mission headed by Prof. D.T. Lakdawala to study the possibility of developing the Institute into a national institute of social science research. On the basis of the recommendations of the mission the Institute was reconstituted as a national institute in March 1977 under the joint sponsorship of the Indian Council of Social Science Research and the Government of Tamil Nadu, with a Governing Council comprising representatives of the ICSSR, State Government, Universities of the four southern states, original trustees of the Institute and co-opted social scientists as given in Annexure I. The trust gifted to the reconstituted national institute its land and building, library, furniture, equipment, and a cash endowment.

As per the trust deed, the Institute also has an Academic Council, which meets twice a year. It consists of both external and internal members. While all the professors of the Institute serve on it as permanent members, other faculty members and the Ph.D scholars serve on rotation. The Director of the Institute is its ex-officio Chairman. The composition of the current Academic Council is mentioned in Annexure II.

Dr. Malcolm S Adiseshiah served as the Director of the Institute from its inception till June 1978. Dr. C.T. Kurien took up charge as Director of the reconstituted Institute in July 1978. Dr. A. Vaidyanathan took over as Director with effect from July 1, 1988. When Dr. Vaidyanathan went on deputation as member of the Planning Commission in Delhi on the invitation of the Government of India, Dr. Nirmal Sengupta served as acting Director of the Institute from January 1990 to June 1990. From July 1990 onwards Dr. S. Neelakantan has been serving as the Director.

With the reconstitution, the scope of the Institute's activities has widened. Besides conducting research on various aspects of the society, economy and polity both at the state and national levels, it is organising seminars and conferences, and fostering inter-university cooperation. The Institute is recognised by the Madras university for conducting research leading to Ph.D degree. Expansion of its library and strengthening its documentation activities are important aspects of its programme.

The Institute completed two decades of its service in 1990-91. It has responded positively to the research needs in social sciences. This report highlights the activities of the Institute from June 1993 to July 1994.

Personnel

The academic and administrative positions which remained vacant in 1992-93 could not be filled in 1993-94 also because of the tight financial position. The funding agencies did not respond to our repeated requests for financial support to fill the vacancies. So, the posts were not advertised. Dr.P.Radhakrishnan was away at the School of Oriental and African Studies, (SOAS), London University from May 2 to July 16, 1993 as Charles Wallace Visiting Fellow; and in Holland from April 18 to June 16, 1994 as ICSSR nominee at the Anthropological Sociological Centre, University of Amsterdam. Dr.S.Janakarajan visited Cornell University in the capacity of Ford Foundation Post-Doctoral Fellow for nearly one year in 1992-93 and returned by end of September, 1993. Mr.S.Subramanian was Visiting Professor of Economics at University of California at Riverside for three months between September and December 1993. Dr.U.Kalpagam continued to be on leave to pursue her studies for post-doctoral work in the US for a long duration, till June 15, 1997. Dr.K.Nagaraj spent three weeks during January-February 1994 at the Centre for Development Studies to give a course on 'Migration and Urbanisation'. Dr.Nasir Tyabji, Reserve Bank of India Professor, has been awarded the Nehru Memorial Museum and Library Senior Fellowship for a period of three years, and is on leave from June 1994.

Dr.U.Sankar, Professor and Head, Department of Econometrics, University of Madras has accepted the invitation of the Governing Council and joined as Honorary Professor of the Institute in November, 1993.

Mr. Dharumaperumal was appointed as Programme Assistant with effect from June 16, 1994.

Faculty members of the Institute and their areas of research are shown in Annexure III. The composition of administration and library is mentioned in Annexure IV.

Research Activities

The Institute has striven to facilitate the faculty members to set their own agenda for their individual research activities which gives them autonomy and flexibility. Wherever collaboration is needed, it is achieved through consensus. The Institute does not have single discipline departments and the research concerns of the many faculty members are multi-disciplinary. This is reflected clearly in the academic output of the Institute.

Like many of the ICSSR Institutes, our Institute also has a regional focus; the main focus is on Tamil Nadu. But it has not precluded the faculty from taking up national and international issues for analysis. The issues covered form a wide range.

Agriculture, agrarian issues, and rural development is a major area of research in the Institute. Sub-themes include food and agriculture, public expenditure on agricultural development, trends in irrigated agriculture, public procurement and public distribution, Panchayati Raj, and socio-economic transformation of village economy.

Irrigation, water use and water management is another important branch of the research. Surveys of water use, indigenous management of irrigation, groundwater irrigation and trading in groundwater, distribution pattern of lift irrigation, land records and irrigation rights, tank irrigation, urban and rural drinking water supply, waste-water disposal and cauvery water dispute are all related themes within this broad area.

Education in its multifaceted dimensions is another major branch of research concern. These mainfestations relate to access and variations in educational opportunities of different sections of the people over the years, traditional Indian education, British educational policy in India, India's educational efforts in relation to the Constitutional provisions, education as a basic need in relation to social exclusion, adult education and technological changes are samples of topics which are being explored.

Backward classes and reservation at the national level and in the context of Tamil Nadu from historical and contemporary perspectives is an important area of research in relation to social policy.

Ideological basis of the Dravidian movement and its transformation as well as politics of mass mobilisation in contemporary Tamil Nadu constitute another area of research. A related theme which too is being researched, both in its present and historical dimensions,. is the interaction between media and politics.

Women's studies related to gender issues is yet another major theme of research. In this area, the topics investigated include gender and women's issues in the context of patriarchy, women's status and reproduction rights, and women's status and education.

Equity in distribution is the focus of research of a few faculty members. Social security option for developing countries, economic processes and weaker sections, health, nutrition, access to housing and sanitation in relation to basic needs and social exclusion, and public distribution system are topics related to this branch.

Industry, employment, technology and markets are among other important areas of research. Labour market conditions in urban and rural India, employment characteristics in urban areas, labour force participation of women and children, growth of rural non-agricultural employment are some of the research concerns in relation to labour. Markets for silk weavers, and markets and contracts in South India in relation to agrarian change are market related topics. Entrepreneurial development in Tamil Nadu, business organisations, export garment industry, technology choice in transport industry, technology absorption, traditional technologies, bridging technology gap by corporate sector, and tariff structure for electricity and power sector in India are some of the themes related to technology and industry.

Common property resources and ecological studies is another major area of research. National resource accounting, urban environmental management, agro-forestry, role of non-timber produce, forest and water policies, reappraising common property institutions are research concerns related to these themes.

Structural adjustment issues in relation to liberalisation, planning in India, global capitalism and Indian economy, secularism and ethnicity as well as rethinking economics are all independent macro research concerns.

Depending on the area and focus the faculty members decide the media in which to publish their findings. They range from MIDS publications, books, edited books, monographs, journals and newspapers, book reviews, seminar presentations and lectures. These are listed in annexures V to XII.

Related Activities

The members of the faculty have always taken active interest in the academic and public activities outside the Institute. Many of them serve as examiners for research degrees. They act as referees/members of editorial committees of journals and as members of the academic bodies of colleges and universities. The public activities of the faculty members are mentioned in Annexure XIII.

Projects

The Faculty members undertake projects generally in areas related to their own field of research. During the year under review, the Institute had undertaken projects for Central and State Planning Commissions, Central Ministries of Environment and Rural Development, Swedish Internatioanal Development Agency, ICSSR, Ford Foundation, World Resources Institute, International Institute of Labour Studies, Overseas Development Administration, and Institute of Social Sciences, Delhi. The details of projects undertaken are listed in Annexure XIV.

RBI Chair

In 1985, the Reserve Bank of India established a Chair in applied research in regional economics in the Institute for a five year period. Since 1991, the RBI extended support for a unit comprising a Professor, Research Associate and one Steno-typist on a continuing basis subject to periodic evaluation.

Dr.Nasir Tyabji is the Professor, and Dr.S.Janakarajan is the Research Associate, seconded by the Institute to this unit.

Since 1993 the RBI has also been granting fellowships to two Ph.D.Scholars with a condition that the total number of fellowships at a time shall not exceed four.

Seminars and Visitors

The Monthly Seminar series, providing an interface between the academics and the public, is usually held in the last week of every month, and continues uninterrupted. for the past 23 years. For over a decade, Dr.Malcolm S.Adiseshiah has been reviewing the latest issue of "Tamil Nadu: An Economic Appraisal" every year in one of the monthly seminars. Selected papers from the Monthly Seminar series are published in the MIDS Bulletin. The list of monthly seminars held during the year under review is given in Annexure XV.

In addition, special academic seminars were also arranged in the Institute with outside participation. The list of special seminars and seminars by visitors are given in Annexures XVI and XVII.

Many distinguished scholars visited the Institute during the year under review and some of them also gave seminars/lectures. The list of visitors is given in Annexure XVII.

Inter-University and Inter-institutional Co-operation

The Workshop of Ph.D. scholars and guides is sponsored by the MIDS and ICSSR. It is an annual feature to foster academic cooperation between MIDS and universities. Conducting the Workshop outside MIDS on an experimental measure last year proved to be a success; it was continued this year also. It was held between 25 and 28 April, 1994 at St. Jude's Shrine, Tuticorin co-sponsored by the Manonmaniam Sundaranar University, Tirunelveli. Around 18 guides and 28 Ph.D.scholars from different colleges and universities in Tamil Nadu attended the Workshop. Dr.Rajan Gurukkal, Mahatma Gandhi University, Kottayam, Dr. Chandrasekara Bhat, University of Hyderabad, Dr.U.Sankar, Madras University; and Dr.Padmini Swaminathan and Dr.S.Neelakantan, both from MIDS, acted as resource persons. The Ph.D. proposals by the candidates were presented and discussed in different sessions. Suggestions were offered for improving the overall performance of the doctoral scholars. In the final session the research scholars discussed the various problems and issues confronting them in pursuing their research.

Meeting of Social Scientists

The twenty-third meeting of the social scientists, jointly sponsored by the Institute and Southern Regional Centre of the ICSSR, Hyderabad was held at the Institute on December 4-5, 1993. Sixteen heads of University Departments of Social Sciences from the universities in Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka, Kerala and Tamil Nadu, discussed the topic "Financing of Higher Education and Research in Social Sciences." Two theme papers were specially prepared for the meeting, one by Dr.C.B.Padmanaban, Head, Adult Education Evaluation Unit of the Institute "Towards a Growth Oriented Pattern of Financing Higher Education in India" and the other by Dr. P. Arumugam, Reader, Bharathiar University, Coimbatore "Financing of Higher Education in Social Sciences in India."

Inter-disciplinary Research Methodology Workshop

The twenty-fourth Interdisciplinary Research Methodology Workshop was held fromJune 7 to 10, 1994 at the Southern Regional Centre of the ICSSR, Hyderabad. The Workshop was on "Gender and Human Resource Development" and formed the third in the series of Workshops on Human Resources Development. Social activists, economists, specialists in gender issues, sociologists, environmentalists and representatives of voluntary organisations numbering about 30, participated in the Workshop. Eighteen papers were presented in seven sessions which covered the broad themes of women's movements, dalit women, gender and caste, social reform, dowry, natural resource management, environment, labour force participation, law, sexuality and science.

Census of Social Science Research in South India

The twenty-fourth Census of Social Science Research in South India was conducted during January-February 1994. There was a sharp decline in the listing of disciplines this time - 9 against 22 last year. The response from the Universities and institutions was not very encouraging. This may be in part due to the completion of quinquennial census last year. The findings of the Census were published in the MIDS Bulletin of May-June 1994.

Doctoral Programme

Ms.D.Bharathi has been selected for the RBI Fellowship during the year under review. The list of doctoral candidates, alongwith topics of research, names of supervisors are given in Annexure XVIII.

Mr.K.T.Thomson, research scholar under the supervision of Dr.C.T. Kurien, has been awarded the Doctoral Degree this year. The Public Viva Voce examination of Ms.Rukmani Ramani is expected soon. The names of Affiliates and Post-Doctoral Fellows and their fields of specialisation are furnished in Annexure XIX.

Library

During July 1993 to June 1994 the library added 1269 volumes to its stock. Currently we are receiving 195 journals (both Indian and foreign).

This financial year the Tamil Nadu governement's special grant to the library is expected to be Rs.4,23,000/- out of which 50 per cent may be spent on books and the balance for journals.

The library was shifted to the first floor during May 1993. It has now a well ventilated and spacious reading room where all the journals received and the dailies are displayed.

Building Programme

The construction of the additional block to the existing building was completed in July 1993. The building was formally inaugurated on October 9, 1993 by Mr. R.Venkataraman, Former President of India in the presence of Mr. V.R.Nedunchezhian, Finance Minister, Government of Tamil Nadu.

The total cost of the additional block of building is about Rs.30 lakhs. The funding agencies have so far sanctioned Rs.25 lakhs only, of which only Rs.23.6 lakhs has been received. The funding agencies have been approached for additional sanction and for the release of the balance grant.

Computers and Equipments

One AT 486 and 3 AT 386 computers were acquired by the Institute under the Ford Foundation project on "Financing of Irrigation Sector- An Integrated View" in June 1994. A BPL EPABX System was also installed.

Finance

The audit report for the year under review (Annexure XX) presents the financial position of the Institute. It would be seen that the net expenditure was Rs. 42,00,642.36 against a grant in aid of Rs. 41.95 lakhs. (Rs.19.05 lakhs from ICSSR, and Rs. 22.90 from the Tamil Nadu Government) leaving a deficit of Rs. 5642.36.

1 Dr.A.Vaidyanathan, Dr.S.Janakarajan and Mr.A.Rajagopal, "Costs and Productivity of Irrigation", Planning Commission, New Delhi.

The work on Growth and Fluctuations of Productivity of Irrigated and Unirrigated crops has been completed. The results have been brought together in a consolidated paper under the title, "Impact of Irrigation on Productivity of Land" and sent to the Planning Commission.

Revised version of the paper on "Trends in Capital Costs of Major and Medium Irrigation in different states during the period 1964-1984" is also ready. An attempt has been made to construct state specific investment cost indices to work out the state level series on real investment and cost per hectare of additional irrigation. The study has revealed serious gaps in data which need to be addressed in order to get more reliable estimates of capital costs. The study results show that the capital cost per unit of incremental area due to irrigation varies widely across different states. Also there are differences in lag effect of investments made on irrigation across different states. The study also reveals that there is no relationship between the level of investment and productivity of irrigation.

The other major component of the project has been to examine the interaction among hydro-geological and socio-economic characteristics of groundwater irrigation and its effect on the agrarian economy of the selected region. Major objectives have been: a) to check the reliability of the official statistics on the wells and other characteristics; b) to study the cost and the productivity of well irrigation; and c) to understand the nature and functioning of groundwater markets.

Vaigai basin and the Palar basin in the Southern and the Northern parts of Tamil Nadu have been chosen for the study. The inquiry was conducted at three levels: First, based on the available secondary data in the Public Works Department, water balance study conducted in the basin by the State Groundwater Board and the study conducted by the UNDP. The second was based on the meso level village survey. While in the Vaigai basin 27 villages were selected across different reaches of the basin, in the Palar basin 29 villages were selected spread over different reaches. The third level was the detailed village level survey conducted in seven villages of the Vaigai basin.

The study report which is nearly complete, presents a macro and micro picture of the extent of well irrigation - as a sole and as a conjunctive source - in different parts of the basins. Apart from the spatial variation within the basin, field checks showed wild discrepancies between the number of wells and the area irrigated per well as between official records and the actual position on the ground. The study also brings out the point that the investment on wells for the community as a whole is quite substantial and appears to be no way less than what has been spent on the major canal irrigation systems. This is in particular true when we take into account the failure rates of wells and the amount spent on them. Yet another point to note is the fact that the trading in groundwater has been quite significant in particular the Vaigai basin. What is in fact, interesting is the emergence of new forms of trading in ground water due to the progressive lowering of the water table. As a matter of fact the secular lowering of the water table is well established from our study.

2 "Small Water Bodies", Ministry of Environment and Forest, New Delhi.

This study seeks to expand the shape of the earlier paper on "STRATEGY FOR DEVELOPMENT OF TANK IRRIGATION" prepared in November 1992 foi the Ministry of Environment and Forests. The aim is to compile the more detailed data regarding number of tanks, capacity, ayacut etc. for selected river basins in Tamil Nadu, as well as for the States of Andhra Pradesh and Karnataka. Work on this project started in November 1993. During the last six months data in respect of all tanks in the Palar and the Vaigai basins have been compiled and analysed. Similar data for Andhra Pradesh and Karnataka have also been collated from published sources and analysed. Efforts are being made to get more details on the extent of system tanks as well as on the role of the State government in the maintenance and management of tanks in these States, because they seem to be different from the present practice in Tamil Nadu. The work and write up of the report is expected to be completed in another three months.

3 "Review of Public Expenditure in Agriculture in Tamil Nadu", State Planning Commission, Madras.

This project sponsored by the State Planning Commission has the following objectives: (i) to understand the change and distribution of public expenditure on various heads of agriculture and rural development over the last ten years from 1980-81 to 1990-91, (ii) relative roles of the centre and state governments in financing on agriculture development and (iii) its impact on agriculture development and assets creation.

Data relating to: (a) total public expenditure for ARD has been computed, (b) its economic-cum-functional classification, (c) details of total revenue expenditure for agriculture and rural development (ARD), and (d) detailed composition of plan outlays. These raw data have been reclassified in order to get an overview of the composition of ARD spending, and trends therein for the period 1980-81 to 1990-91. The preliminary results of this compilation and analysis are presented in a brief paper which has been sent to the Planning Commission of Tamil Nadu. During the coming months based on a more detailed analysis of this data, the focus would be on some key issues covering ARD and its effectiveness.

4 "Social Exclusion - Basic Needs" - I.I.L.S., Geneva.

The Institute has taken up a study on patterns and causes of "Social Exclusion" in India under the auspices of the International Institute For Labour Studies. This is a collaborative work carried out by a research team consisting of Paul Appasamy, S. Guhan, R. Hema, Manabi Majumdar and A. Vaidyanathan. The study primarily focuses on the extent and nature of exclusion of people, as individuals and groups, from the satisfaction of certain basic needs including education, health, housing, water supply, sanitation and social security. The preliminary findings of this study have been presented and discussed at the second workshop on Social Exclusion, held in Robinson College, Cambridge during 14-18 July, 1994.

Research conducted thus far brings out the despiriting conclusion that particular segments of the population are persistently disadvantaged than others in respect of selected basic needs. But the study also reiterates that exclusion from basic freedoms is generally less a matter of official policy than a social, cultural and economic practice. A preliminary foray into the problem further reveals that different dimensions of exclusion reinforce each other and find cumulative expression in over-all capability failure. However, the study underlines a considerable degree of inter-state variations in the incidence of social deprivation.

At the second stage of the study, the research team proposes to make a deeper probing into the differential performance records of states in reducing exclusion from selected basic needs. The intent is to draw insights from the relatively successful cases in order to design policies that promote integration.

Mr. S. Guhan and Dr. K. Nagaraj

5 "Panchayati Raj in Tamil Nadu" Institute of Social Sciences, New Delhi.

The project 'Panchayati Raj in Tamil Nadu" was undertaken by the Madras Institute of Development Studies in June 1993. This project is being funded by the Institute of Social Sciences, New Delhi. Ms.R. Rukmani works as an Associate in the project under the guidance of Mr.S.Guhan.

The objective of the project is to document and evaluate the experience with Panchayati Raj Institutions in Tamil Nadu in the pre and post Independence period. The project report is to comprise of seven chapters. So far, four chapters have been completed and the project is expected to be completed by January 1995. There has been an intrruption in the progress of the project on account of Ms Rukmani proceeding on maternity leave between June and September 1994.

Dr. Nirmal Sengupta

6 "Financing of Irrigation Sector - An Integrated View", Ford Foundation, New Delhi.

In June 1993, the Ford Foundation agreed in principle to support the project. It was sent to the Government of India for approval. However, the permission from the Government was received only in February 1994. Immediately, afterwards Project Director was out of country. Thus, the project work could not be initialised until the beginning of April this year.

By now, appointments have been made and necessary equipments have been purchased. In the first round of data collection, which began in May, some Government Departments were approached. Good responses were received. The data collection work will continue for a few more months. It may be possible to conduct the first set of workshops in October-November this year.

Dr. Padmini Swaminathan

7 "Growth of the Corporate Sector in the Madras Presidency", ICSSR, New Delhi.

Based on the above study, four papers have been brought out dealing with various aspects of the growth of the industrial sector in Colonial Tamil Nadu. An introduction linking the four papers is still under preparation.

Dr. Paul P. Appasamy

8 "Sharing of Common Water Resources", The Swedish International Development Agency (SIDA), Linkoping University, Sweden, and TNAU, Coimbatore.

A project on urban water use in the Bhavani River Basin was sponsored by the Swedish International Development Agency. Field work is currently underway on the private water market for: (i) drinking purposes in the suburban areas of Coimbatore and (ii) industrial use in Tiruppur. Since both areas will receive water diverted from the Bhavani River, the purpose of the study is to estimate the value of water for urban uses. The project would be completed by the end of 1995.

9 Validation Survey of Rural Habitations, Rajiv Gandhi National Drinking Water Mission, Ministry of Rural Development, Govt. of India.

The Rajiv Gandhi National Drinking Water Mission, Ministry of Rural Development, Government of India requested the Institute to participate in a validation survey of non-covered rural habitations in respect of water supply. A survey of 41 rural habitations in Salem, Periyar and Coimbatore districts was conducted during May-June 1994, and a final report is expected to be submitted by the end of July 1994.

10 'Adjustment and Development: Agrarian Change, Markets and Urbanisation in South India, 1973-1993" Queen Elizabeth House, Oxford University and O.D.A., London.

This project was launched on October 1993 and is likely to go on for another 18 months. This is a joint project between Queen Elizabeth House (Oxford University) and MIDS. The project is funded by the Overseas Development Administration (ODA), U.K. This is basically a re-survey of the villages which were originally studied in the year 1973 and then in 1983. The project has several components.

(a) "Agrarian Diversification over two decades".

The agrarian economy in the selected region has been undergoing a tremendous diversification since the time original survey was conducted in the year 1973. Main theme of this study will be to examine the extent and the nature of diversification, mainly focussing on occupational characteristics, crop pattern, input use and productivity, growth of non-farm employment and net asset structure of the village households.

b) Drs. Barbara Harriss-White, Janakarajan, Jayaraj and Nagaraj, "Charge in the market place (Arni) over two decades".

This project attempts to study the business economy of the Arni town, in particular, the changes that have occurred since the first survey conducted in 1973. Particular focus will be to examine the kind of market specialisation that is taking place in the town, reasons for the sustaining paddy/milling activities and the silk weaving industry.

c) "Exchange and interlinked agrarian contracts".

It is generally assumed that Indian agrarian markets are competitive and reasonably efficient. The proposed study would attempt to test the validity of this assumption and then examine the nature of exchange relations and the institutional characteristics of various agrarian markets (such as land market, land-lease market, labour market, water market, input market, credit market, product market and the market for non-farm output). The purpose of this study is also to understand the nature of power relations that exist between the agents engaged in various transactions, in particular the non-market relations embedded in various contractual arrangements.

Dr. C. B. Padmanabhan

11. "NATIONAL ADULT EDUCATION PROGRAMME" and "ARIVOLI IYAKKAM", Ministry of Human Resource Development, New Delhi.

During end of June 1994, the interim evaluation report of Coimbatore District was completed and the report is about to be produced. The survey of T.L.C. in Nagai Quaid-E-Milleth has been completed and the data are being analysed. As soon as the report of Nagai is completed, it is proposed to complete the survey for Dindigul Anna by August and a consolidated report for all 11 districts will be prepared.
